TOBACCO IS USEFUL. In Solution Enjoyed by Green Aphis, But It Kills Him.

Mayor T. H. Blackburn of Brighan city was in Sait Lake on business this week. When questioned in regard to he report that the peach orchards of the report that the peach orchards of Brigham city and neighborhood are seriously threatened by green aphis, he said: "For a while the situation looked rather serious, but now we consider the crisis past and the peach crop pretty well assured. Considerable spraying was resorted to by many of the orchardists with a tobacco solution, and with splendid effect. The aphis attacks the leaf only. This shrivels up and in this way injures the tree and the fruit. The solution on the leaven is absorbed by the aphis, which is throyed. Now the orchards are pretty well rid of the destructive little insects."

LOADED ORCHARDS, FOR SALE-REAL ESTATE.

Davis County Gardeners Have Sure Mine of Wealth in Their Well-Filled Acres.

LeRoy Marsh, horticultural inspector of Davis county, was in Salt Lake. Thursday. "I would like to correct the mpression which got into the press of the state some weeks ago that practically the entire fruit crop of Davis county was destroyed by the late frosts, which report was erroneous, said Mr. Marsh. "There were some individual losses, but nothing of a wide-spread nature, and the general condition of the orchards in Davis county today is very satisfactory. This holds good with the susceptible peaches as well as the hardier apple orchards. In William Miller's apple orchard at Clearfield, present prospects indicate a yield this season of not less than 9,000 bushels, principally Jonathans and Missouri Pippins, which is 15 carloads. These should net from $1.25 to $1.50 a hox, or $12,000 to $15,000. Mr. Jensen, a business man of Ogden, has probably the largest peach orchard in Davis county, about eight acres. This will yield a good crop this year. John Reed has a fine apple orchard of 35 acres, about seven individual losses, but nothing of eight acres. This will yield a good crop this year. John Reed has a fine apple orchard of 35 acres, about seven years old, which will this year begin yielding, and present prospects are there will be a splendid crop of Jonathaus. Part, of this orchard was sold recently for $600 an acre.

SOME TOMATOES.

"Our county, however, is not entirely dependent for its prosperity on the fruit industry. Look at the tomato business, for instance. Last year eight acres produced 185 tons. These sold for $8 a ton. This year there are planted in Davis county 700 acres of tomatoes which should average 15 tons to the acre, or a total of 10,500 tons which this season are contracted for at $2 a ton higher than last year, or $10 a ton making the prospective tomato crop alone of Davis county worth $105,000. This acreage will supply the requirements of the four canning factories which will be operated in that immediate vicinity this summer.

"In addition to its great horticultural and vegetable interests, Davis county has vast tracts of lands covered with flourishing fields of alfalfa and other grasses and thousands of acres of grains of various kinds. The county ed with flourishing fields of alfalfa and other grasses and thousands of acres of grains of various kinds. The county generally is in a most flourishing condition right now."

Mr. Marsh and partner, Mr. Payne, have a flourishing orchard of 19 acres near Clearfield, mostly fruits, garden truck, two acres of strawberries, which promise big things this season, the vines being loaded with the luscious berries, the earliest of which have already begun to ripen. Great vields of potatoes, cantaloupes reat yields of potatoes, cantaloud asparagus are also recorded

Davis county.

This fall, Mr. Marsh expects to move to Kelsey, Texas, where he will have charge of extensive fruit interests, he being one of the most practical and well read horticultural men in Utah today. Kelsey is one of the really flourishing Mormon settlements outside of Utah. It today numbers over 500 souls.
